

CESCO-PROTECT

Breathe Life back into your bearings®

We are proud to introduce our new, locally manufactured CESCO-PROTECT™ bearing isolator.

Bearing protection has been around for many years in the form of oil seals, and more recently, labyrinth type seals.

These are non-contacting seals, designed to create a barrier between the environment and the bearing by means of a labyrinth path of some sorts.

We all know and understand the importance of protecting bearings from contamination, and huge inroads has been made on the international circuit to supply such seals to the end user.

Labyrinth seals, or bearing isolators as it is commonly known, have been prolonging bearing life all over the world including South Africa.

Unfortunately bearing isolators are not kept locally in all sizes, and could take up to two weeks to be delivered.

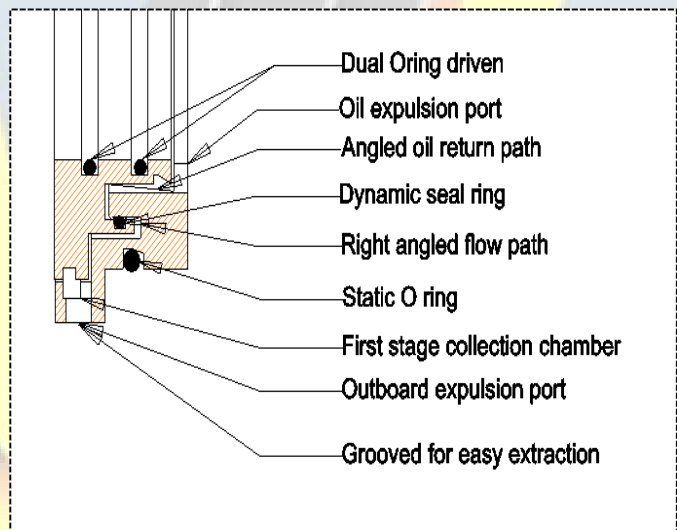

Therefore, we have designed our own bearing isolator that can be delivered in the shortest possible time.

All that is required is to fill in our application form, email it to us, and we will send you a quotation.

Delivery to your doorstep will be within 48 hours from order, guaranteed.

Below are the benefits you will receive:

- ✓ Locally on demand manufactured bearing isolator designed for rigorous environments
